GUIDELINES FOR A ROAD JOURNEY FROM DELHI TO CAMP FORKTAIL CREEK

Leaving Delhi, you need to get on the Nizamuddin Bridge and then towards the Delhi – UP Border.

Drive straight to Moradabad.

Enroute you will pass Hapur (take the Hapur by pass just before Hapur town)- Garhganga- Gajraula (the best midway stop for a meal is slightly ahead of Gajraula town, try places called Tadka, A1 or Meriton Hotel) - Joya.

Then, take the Moradabad bypass just before Moradabad town.

At the first toll booth, get a ticket for the full by-pass. Onwards you would encounter another toll booth and finally join the main highway.

You need to take a U turn from this juncture and drive back about 2 kms and then take a right turn for Kashipur and onwards to Ramnagar. You will now be in NH 121 all the way to Camp.

After you cross Ramnagar, (you must call Camp from here) drive on the Ranikhet Road for about 20kms till you get to the village of Mohan (There is a police barrier at Mohan).

From Mohan take the road going to Garhwal (left turn- you will still be on NH 121) and you would spot the Camp board on the right of the road (close to a local temple) after a distance of 1.5 kms from Mohan.

There would be a representative from Camp to greet you here and a 4WD Jeep would transfer you to Camp, should you have called and intimated us from Ramnagar.

Driving time: Delhi to Camp= 7 hrs.

Ramnagar to Camp= 40 mins.
